

Sirs. as a customer of an independent ISP here in Florida I would like to voice my opposition to Bell South's request. Though my service is more expensive than BellSouth I chose them because they offered the features I wanted. Since Bell South is my telephone provider my ISP is using Bell South lines to provide me with service. If Bell South's proposal is accepted it could mean my service would either be priced out of the market or just plain dropped from Bell South's lines.

Though cable and wireless Services are available in my area, I am quite happy with my provider (SnappyDSL)and would really not want to change.
